The King Store and Homestead Museum are listed on the New Jersey and National Registers of Historic Places. The King Homestead Museum was completed in 1881. The house is a Queen Anne structure that boasts a 1936 mural by James W. Marland. The building is proposed to be used as a museum and community offices.

In 2003, the Roxbury Historic Trust received $31,000 from the Trust Fund for roof repair and turret stabilization at the Museum. The 2004 grant funded the replacement of exterior porch balusters and a porch post, plaster repairs, and wallpaper reproduction and installation at the Museum.

The 2005 and 2006 grants assisted with the preparation of components of a Historic Structures Report for the King Homestead Museum and King Store.

The 2007 grant provided for the stabilization of a rubble stone perimeter wall behind the King Store.

The 2008 and 2009 Construction grants completed the replacement of the slate roof, metal gutters at the King Store, and replacement of downspouts at the King Homestead.

A 2009 Non-Construction grant is assisting with the preparation of contract documents to address the Store's chimney rebuilding, plaster repairs and a partial heating and Air Conditioning system.

The 2011 grant will complete Construction Documents addressing the recommendations for Phases I and II from the Historic Structures Report.
